Study Engineering & Business in Wiener Neustadt

Campus 1 – hub for competence, practice & perspectives

This is where it all began: Campus 1 is the University's first and largest location and provides an extensive and modern educational choice with 18 programmes taught at four faculties Engineering, Health, Sport and Security, full-time or extra-occupational, in German and partly in English. By focussing on how to deal with the demands of the future, adopting both an active international outlook and practical relevance, we suitably prepare our students whatever their future career might demand, moulding them into highly sought-after graduates on the job market. Campus 1 of the University of Applied Sciences Wiener Neustadt also offers students a wide range of opportunities outside of the curriculum. Students can make use of the fairly priced sports facilities to achieve an inner balance, or improve their foreign language skills with one of the free language courses taught on campus.

International programmes taught in English

Aerospace Engineering (Master): This multidisciplinary programme is taught in a unique environment: leading aircraft manufacturers, an airport with aircraft and helicopters and research partner FOTEC are situated near the university.

MedTech (Master): This extra-occupational programme is unique in Europe. It is a part time programme, offered via distance learning, combining technical and physical aspects of functional imaging and therapy planning with its application in a medical environment.

City Campus – The center for business expertise

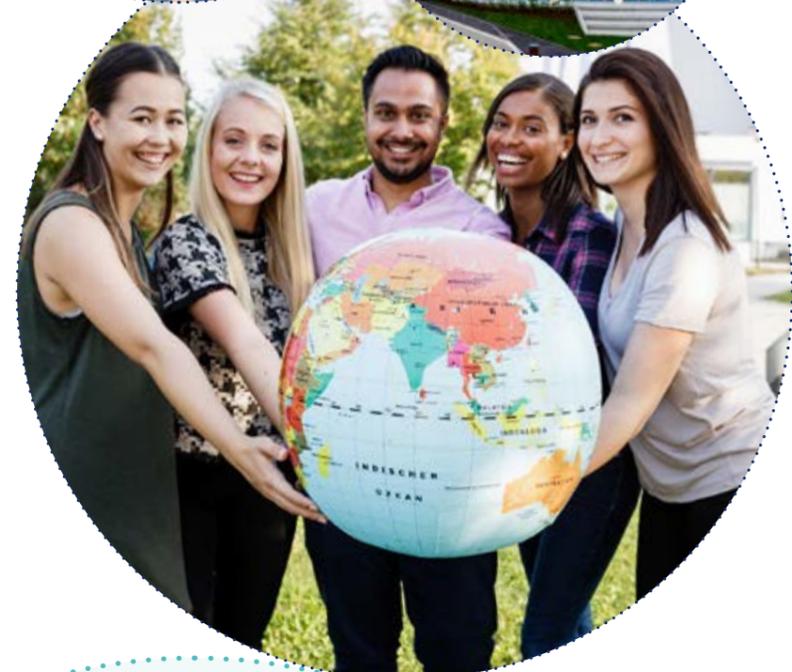

On the site of a former Carmelite monastery in the heart of Wiener Neustadt, 1,400 students of the Faculty of Business have a new academic home since the fall semester 2019. The City Campus does not only represent an upgrade for Wiener Neustadt as a place of education but also a milestone for the University of Applied Sciences Wiener Neustadt. To implement their innovative business ideas and business plans, students can make use of the support of a modern start-up center with a co-working space. With this, the University of Applied Sciences Wiener Neustadt is introducing a fresh entrepreneurial spirit to a picturesque town center, offering students a multitude of activities in their spare time, while short distances characterise the students' everyday life. The merger of the University of Applied Sciences' library and the city library has created one now open to both students and all other interested parties. Study Focus

Practice perspectives

Bachelor-programme: As a BCi graduate, you will be able to fulfil the requirements of the business community by means of perfect communication skills in English, intercultural understanding and global business know-how. The main activity in the sixth and final semester of the degree programme is an internship in a company approved by the university, either in Austria or abroad. The duration of the internship is at least 15 weeks and provides a great opportunity for work experience, networking, and even permanent employment. Both the company and the students are supported by the BCi team to ensure that everyone involved gets most out of the internship experience.

Master-programme: There is no substitute for experiencing international business culture first-hand. A key aspect of MBCi is the study trip in the final semester. Our students travel to international business hubs such as New York, London, and Hong Kong for an intense week of company visits, presentations, and business tours. They gain an invaluable perspective of doing business in these centres, learn about the local challenges and opportunities, as well as have interactive seminars with industry leaders.

Approved quality

International qualifications

Both the Business Consultancy International Bachelor's and Master's degree programmes voluntarily underwent the rigorous accreditation process of FIBAA (Foundation for International Business Administration Accreditation)

FIBAA is a European, internationally oriented agency for quality assurance and quality development in higher education. Its international quality seal certifies not only the outstanding quality of the BCi programmes, but also facilitates the international recognition of both the programme and the degree.

BCi has been ranked in the top tier in the CHE (Center for Higher Education) university ranking based on its practical orientation and close ties to industry (CHE, May 2019)
